

Medical staff member – Pneumology – Subdiscipline Somnology (full-time)

- Reference: 1817
- Apply before: 01-05-2019

Background

The Pneumology Department at UZ Leuven aims to maintain its position as one of the top centres in its field by consistently focusing on clinical excellence, training and research. The subdiscipline Somnology aims to deliver optimal care to patients with sleep-wake disorders as part of a multidisciplinary programme (involving pneumology, neurology, psychiatry, psychology, ear - nose and throat medicine, dentistry, maxillo-facial surgery, etc...). Innovation is a primary focus and the Department closely collaborates in research with KU Leuven, including the Faculties of Medicine, Engineering, Human Movement and Rehabilitation Sciences.

Job description

The position comprises three principal elements:

- Clinical care: you are part of a dynamic, multidisciplinary team, willing to take on new challenges.
- You are interested in clinical research. Having or intending to obtain a PhD is strongly encouraged.
- Training and education: your role will include training of medical students and assisting and supervising young and senior trainees in internal medicine and pneumology.assistants.

What you can offer

- You have a medical degree and are qualified in Belgium/the European Union as pulmonologist .
- You envision the values of UZ Leuven as an international centre of medical expertise.
- You are a native Dutch speaker or you have a knowledge of Dutch to the level B1+ or higher, or you are willing to profoundly improve your Dutch language.
- You have a clear interest in sleep-wake disorders.
- Accreditation by the European Sleep Research Society is an advantage, but not a prerequisite for the application.

What we offer

- An opportunity to work in an interesting and complex hospital organisation which presents continuous challenges in your day-to-day work.
- An attractive employment and remuneration package with many additional benefits.

- The starting date is 1 January 2020, but a fellowship in sleep-wake disorders may already start from August 1st, 2019
